Watermelon bo

One day Lucas came home and saw a sliced watermelon on the table. He was very hungry. His mom always used to say that Lucas mustn't eat watermelon seeds, but he always gave her the cold shoulder. He quickly ate the whole watermelon with seeds and went to bed. When Lucas woke up in the morning, a few watermelon leaves were throwing around him, but he ignored it and went to school. In lunch break he let his hair down with friends. But then suddenly everyone started laughing at him. This made his blood boil, because he didn't understand why everyone was laughing at him. Suddenly the teacher grabbed his hand and took him to the nurse, but Lucas could not understand why. There was a mirror in the room in which Lucas saw that his head had turned into a watermelon. He was very scared, so he jumped out the window and ran. Lucas didn't know what to do and where to go, but he kept his chin up. He decided to go to his mother, hoping she could help. When he walked down the hill, he began to turn into a large watermelon. So he started rolling down the hill very quickly. And in the blink of an eye watermelon boy fell and due to the fall he was smashed. Later, the children came around and ate the smashed watermelon with all the seeds.

Medicine 50 years ago and now.

In the last 50 years, medicine and since has taken a gigant steps forward. It is true that every day science and medicine are moving forward, but if before a person was go sick for a cold for months, now, 1 – 2 weeks, and a person is as fit a fiddle. Possibly, in the future, people will stop getting cold, because maybe scientists will come up new medicine pills.

Casino incident

It was a sunny day. No signs of trouble. The casino owner has returned to the casino. The casino lost a huge amount of money yesterday. The fault was the dealer who placed the playing cards incorrectly.

The owner said: "All heads up, now we will investigate the incident". "Dealer, what was the problem why we lost?". The dealer answered: "Playing Cards were packed in a different order". Owner: "How can they be packed in a different order?". "You buy playing cards at the stall?". Dealer: "No, we buy playing cards only from the manufacturer". Owner: "Why were the cards packed in a different order?". Dealer: "I really don't know". Owner: "You really want to say that there was a mistake at the factory?". Dealer: "Yes". Owner: "You makes my blood boil!". "Stop making excuses!".

The discussion did not stop until the evening. Everyone who walked past the casino turn a blind eye to loud discussion. Until today it is not clear who is to blame for the loss.

One winter day, when wind was blowing snowflakes from the roof I decided to visit my grandma. I came close to her, sat down on her lap, looked into her gleaming eyes and her worked hands. She opened her old chest, cleared the dust and began to talk about her life and memories.

My grandmother's face was sad, but I was too little to understand. She told how difficult but at the same time lovely is life, she sometimes wanted to cry, but there were no tears. The moment she opened the album, her memories busted out.

She began to talk about her childhood, about the difficult moments and life with her family. There were moments in her life that left painful scars into her face and her worked hands. She stood up against the sky and only believed and hoped.

She was always thinking not only about herself, but about our whole family. She was tired, but she never showed it. She was dead on her feet, but despite everything she never gave up, no matter how painful or difficult it was.

The story really touched my heart even then when I was a child, and it remained vividly in my memory.

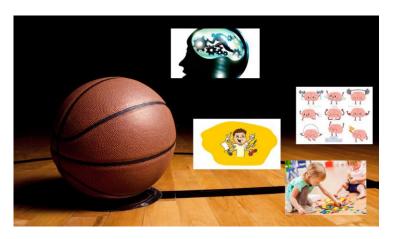

She always started her day with a smile, she taught me my first chores, and I learned a lot from her-how

Break somebody's heart

I wanted to introduce my close friend and a friend ,it seemed to me that they are very well suited to each other. I gathered them together in a cafe. I introduced them to each other, and they immediately found a common language and a topic for conversation. I thought it was great, so it was at first. They began to meet more often ,he began to produce tokens of attention, flowers, toys. Finally, a month later, a friend said that he proposed to meet and she of course agreed, they were all fine, but after a while, a friend noticed that he began to treat her coldly. After a while, he announced that he had another one. In the end they broke up. And it turns out that he broke her heart, I felt sorry for her .But after a couple of months, she found true love, and I'm very happy for them. Remember this The best thing in our life is love.
